SECURFORCE F1 FEATURES

Tomato rootstock of medium/high vigor ideal for long cycles of cultivation in greenhouse. Securforce showed best performance during the cold period of the year improving both generative and fruits' set abilities of the graft. Thanks to its balanced metabolism, the plant grows and develops in a regular way keeping unchanged and in some cases improving, the organoleptic characteristics of the fruit with particular reference to color, shape and flavor. The root system expands very quickly after the first days of transplantation with a very dense root capillice. Securforce F1 boasts one of the most complete ranges of radical resistances on the market today.

LIMITATIONS

The information contained in this leaflet is not intended to be exhaustive nor should it be considered as advice, guide or recommendation. They represent, more simply, the average results achieved during the tests carried out by the Fenix S.r.l. and are not applicable or adaptable to all cultural and pedoclimatic conditions.

The terms "high resistance" (HR) and "intermediate resistance"

(IR) do not imply plant immunity as better defined by the document produced by the ISF (International Seed Federation).

Fenix S.r.l. does not provide guarantees with regard to return, performance, marketability, suitability for a particular purpose or otherwise. The photos used are purely indicative.
